Homage to a Legacy

The evocative journey spanning over 140 years of Constantia Glen, a jewel in the crown of South Africa's oldest wine region, has been chronicled in a beautiful coffee table book. Constantia Glen: A Timeless Vision captures the life and times of this boutique wine estate, through its turbulent early history and eventual transformation from forest land into one of the Cape's premier family-owned wine estates. The book, carefully researched and written by author Clare O'Donoghue and with compelling photographs by Craig Fraser, is a celebration of Constantia Glen's heritage. This visual feast is a sweeping historical account, but it is also the intimate story of the Waibel family, whose determined vision is underwritten by a deep love for the land they have nurtured over four generations. Constantia Glen: A Timeless Vision is published by Quivertree Publications and sells for R500 at selected book stores. For the love of Carménère

Lozarn wines, handcrafted on Doornbosch farm from grapes grown in the fertile soils of Robertson wine valley, recently released their second vintage of Carménère 2017. This intriguing and inviting red boasts an intercontinental history. It is originally from the Bordeaux area of France where it was just about wiped out during the phylloxera outbreak in the late 19th century. But cuttings survived, then thrived in Chile, where it has become that country's signature grape. Carménère features delicious wafts of berry aromas that precede flavours of cherry, plum, and a hint of mocha. The wine is classy, but approachable, offering fruit backed by unobtrusive tannins and occasional hints of mint. Visit the website at www.lozarn.co.za for more information.
